INTRODUCTION

National Parks were designated in order to protect beautiful areas for the benefit of the nation. They came about as a result of the 1949 National Parks and Access to the Countryside Act, which put a legislative framework in place for the establishment of National Parks in England and Wales.

The first two National Parks were designated in 1951 and in 1957 the Bannau Brycheiniog National Park was designated covering an area of some 520 square miles (1346 sq. kilometres). Until 1995 the Bannau Brycheiniog National Park Authority was a joint committee of the then local County Councils until the Environment Act of that year laid down legislation to establish National Park Authorities as independent, special purpose Local Authorities.

CURLEW CONNECTIONS - COMMUNITIES AND ENGAGEMENT OFFICER

WHAT DO NATIONAL PARKS DO?

National Parks have two purposes: Firstly, to conserve and enhance the natural and cultural environment of the park, and secondly to promote awareness and understanding and enjoyment of its special qualities. These special qualities have been described as:

- the landscape and natural beauty
- the peace and tranquility
- opportunities for walking and access to open countryside
- open spaces and qualities of remoteness
- traditionally managed farmland and
- wildlife

In so doing the National Parks also have a duty to foster the social and economic well-being of the communities within the Park.

In delivering on their purposes and duty there are five key functions of National Park Authorities. These are to:

1. act as Local Planning Authority
2. act as relevant Authority for access to open countryside under the CROW Act
3. facilitate environmental programmes
4. provide public information, interpretation and education services
5. deliver the sustainable development fund on behalf of the Welsh Government.

THE BANNAU BRYCHEINIOG NATIONAL PARK AUTHORITY

The National Park Authority consists of 18 members, 12 nominated by the seven Local Authorities in the area and the other 6 nominated by the Minister for Environment of the Welsh Government.

This split helps to ensure that the local and national interests are represented at National Park Authority level. There is a range of key committees responsible for managing the business of the Authority. In addition, working and advisory groups, both internal and external, have been established to help in the decision-making process. Some 110 full-time staff equivalents are employed in two Directorates – Nature and Climate Change and Planning and Place, as well as the Chief Executive's Department – PR & Communications, Finance, IT, Legal, Democratic Services and HR. Staff and Members cover a wide range of activities and services and it is the key role of officers to provide advice and guidance to Members of the Authority to help them make decisions and set the vision and strategies for the Authority.

The Authority's key strategic document is the National Park Management Plan, which sets our aims, strategic objectives and Priorities for Action for the Authority (www.beacon-npa.gov.uk). In addition to this, we have an adopted Local Development Plan (www.beacons-npa.gov.uk) which provides the framework for future development within the National Park. The Authority is also developing its State of the Park Report, which will summarise the changing status of environmental, social and cultural assets in the Park. With delegated responsibility for Rights of Way maintenance and management we are implementing the Authority's Rights of Way Improvement Plan.

National Parks in England and Wales are Category V protected landscapes as defined by the International Union for the Conservation of Nature (IUCN). This recognises the involvement of people in shaping the landscapes. Like all National Parks in England and Wales, agriculture is very influential in how the landscape is managed. A viable, profitable, broadminded and innovative farming sector, working in close collaboration with the Park's communities, local businesses and public and voluntary bodies is fundamental to the landscape's future management. Flexibility and adaptability will be important qualities to address the challenges of climate change, energy descent pathways and demographic and social changes ahead.

JOB DESCRIPTION

Post Title: Curlew Connections - Communities and Engagement Officer

Grade: 6

Responsible to: Ecologist

Job Purpose:

The Curlew Connections Communities and Engagement Officer will re-connect people with curlews in the Welsh landscape and inspire them to help us in our ambitions for reversing their rapid population decline.

You will broaden the appeal of curlews and encourage a diverse range of people to gain a greater understanding of their plight, and love for, curlews in our landscape.

We want to recruit someone who is passionate about promoting understanding and awareness of the curlew, in particular the conservation of breeding curlews.

You will work closely with the Curlew and People Officer in Bannau Brycheiniog National Park to influence increased appreciation of the curlew and its breeding requirements. A core element of the brief is to inspire and enable a range of audiences including the farming community, young people, the older generation and a range of communities to build a high level of local support for breeding curlews.

MAIN DUTIES

To assist the Curlew & People Officer, Bannau Brycheiniog National Park staff, and colleagues within the Curlew Connections Wales project to deliver engagement activities which builds a greater understanding and appreciation of curlew recovery as described in a Project Engagement Plan. Target audiences have been identified, including the farming community, local and national communities, recording groups, schools and colleges and the elderly community. Tasks will include:

- Bringing the stories of the curlew to life through innovative events and experiences that inspire communities.
- Working directly with the farming and land managing community to identify Curlew Champions and foster good practice.
- Organisation of dynamic interpretive events and creation of materials, drawing on the current material of Gylfinir Cymru.
- Provision of education and learning opportunities for primary and secondary aged pupils and other youth groups, particularly agricultural colleges and Young Farmers Clubs.
- Organising a celebration of Curlew celebration events through a variety of mediums and across a wide range of communities.
- Identification of new and collaborative ways of working across communities
- Development of a programme to ensure more people and a wider range of people become involved with curlew recovery. Including:
 - oNational and local citizen science programmes
 - oNew volunteering opportunities and training for rural communities close to current curlew populations.
 - oA range of inclusive activities for target audiences including for older people, and specific local activities for organisations with an older age profile e.g. the Women's Institute, U3A.
 - oDevelopment of inter-generational projects within communities e.g., oral history records of memories of curlew in farming communities undertaken by the younger generations.
- Utilising best practice to develop methods of communicating with our target audiences that will lead to meaningful engagement and drive change that is focussed on outputs and impacts.
- Managing multiple projects and working with a range of contractors including translators, illustrators, designers, artists, creative agencies and goods providers.

As part of this work, it is expected you will attend meetings with the project partners and the project delivery team on a regular basis to share ideas and play a role in the delivery of curlew recovery in Wales.

PRIVACY STATEMENT

We process personal data relating to those we employ for employment purposes, to assist in the running of the authority and/or to enable individuals to be paid. The collection of this information will also be of benefit in:

- improving the management of workforce data
- enabling development of a comprehensive picture of the workforce and how it is deployed
- informing the development of recruitment and retention policies
- allowing better financial modelling and planning
- enabling monitoring of selected protected characteristics

The personal data includes identifiers such as name, date of birth, payroll (SAP) number, personal characteristics such as gender, disability and ethnic group, plus qualifications, performance and absence/occupational health information.

We will not share information about you with third parties without your consent unless the law allows or requires us to or we are required to share it to manage your employment contract with us. When we do share your data it will be via encrypted email software or password protected files. We are required to share some of your personal data with:

- HMRC
- Outsourced HR and Payroll Services (currently with Cardiff City Council and Carmarthenshire County Council)
- Powys County Council pensions who administer the Authority's pension scheme
- Local Government Audit and fraud detection teams

We store information relating to job applicants for 6 months and for employees for 7 years post-employment. Data is stored electronically on BBNPA servers. The employee records have access restrictions meaning only HR staff are able to view and process it. Physical records are stored in the HR office which is locked and within locked filing cabinets.

As part of any recruitment process, the Authority collects and processes personal data relating to job applicants. The Authority is committed to being transparent about how it collects and uses that data and to meeting its data protection obligations.

PRIVACY STATEMENT

What information does the Authority collect?

The Authority collects a range of information about you. This includes: -

- your name, address and contact details, including email address and telephone number;
- details of your qualifications, skills, experience and employment history;
- information about your current level of remuneration;
- whether or not you have a disability for which the Authority needs to make reasonable adjustments during the recruitment process;
- information about your entitlement to work in the UK; and
- equal opportunities monitoring information, including information about your ethnic origin, sexual orientation, health, and religion or belief

The Authority collects this information in a variety of ways. For example, data might be contained in application forms, CVs or resumes, obtained from your passport or other identity documents, or collected through interviews or other forms of assessment, including online tests.

The Authority will also collect personal data about you from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers and information from criminal records checks. The Authority will seek information from third parties only once a job offer to you has been made and will inform you that it is doing so.

Data will be stored in a range of different places, including on your application record, in HR management systems and on other IT systems (including email).

Why does the Authority process personal data?

The Authority needs to process data to take steps at your request prior to entering into a contract with you. It also needs to process your data to enter into a contract with you.

In some cases, the Authority needs to process data to ensure that it is complying with its legal obligations. For example, it is required to check a successful applicant's eligibility to work in the UK before employment starts.

The Authority has a legitimate interest in processing personal data during the recruitment process and for keeping records of the process. Processing data from job applicants allows the Authority to manage the recruitment process, assess and confirm a candidate's suitability for employment and decide to whom to offer a job. The Authority may also need to process data from job applicants to respond to and defend against legal claims.

The Authority processes health information if it needs to make reasonable adjustments to the recruitment process for candidates who have a disability. This is to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

Where the Authority processes other special categories of data, such as information about ethnic origin, sexual orientation, health or religion or belief, this is for equal opportunities monitoring purposes.

CURLEW CONNECTIONS - COMMUNITIES AND ENGAGEMENT OFFICER

PRIVACY STATEMENT

For some roles, the Authority is obliged to seek information about criminal convictions and offences. Where the Authority seeks this information, it does so because it is necessary for it to carry out its obligations and exercise specific rights in relation to employment.

The Authority will not use your data for any purpose other than the recruitment exercise for which you have applied.

Who has access to data?

Your information will be shared internally for the purposes of the recruitment exercise. This includes members of the HR and recruitment team, interviewers involved in the recruitment process, managers in the business area with a vacancy and IT staff if access to the data is necessary for the performance of their roles.

The Authority will not share your data with third parties, unless your application for employment is successful and it makes you an offer of employment, or it is required to in law. If you are successful in your application subject to references Authority will then share your data with former employers to obtain references for you and, if the nature of the role requires it, the Disclosure and Barring Service to obtain necessary criminal records checks.

The Authority will not transfer your data outside the European Economic Area.

How does the Authority protect data?

The Authority takes the security of your data seriously. It has internal policies and controls in place to ensure that your data is not lost, accidentally destroyed, misused or disclosed, and is not accessed except by our employees in the proper performance of their duties.

For how long does the Authority keep data?

If your application for employment is unsuccessful, the Authority will hold your data on file for six months after the end of the relevant recruitment process and employment opportunities. At the end of that period your data is deleted or destroyed.

If your application for employment is successful, personal data gathered during the recruitment process will be transferred to your personnel file and retained during your employment. The periods for which your data will be held will be provided to you in a new privacy notice.

Your rights

As a data subject, you have a number of rights. You can:

- access and obtain a copy of your data on request;
- require the Authority to change incorrect or incomplete data;
- require the Authority to delete or stop processing your data where the data is no longer necessary for the purposes for which it was originally obtained;
- object to the processing of your data where the Authority is relying on its legitimate interests as the legal ground for processing; and
- ask the Authority to stop processing data for a period if data is inaccurate or there is a dispute about whether or not your interests override the Authority's legitimate grounds for processing data.

CURLEW CONNECTIONS - COMMUNITY AND ENGAGEMENT OFFICER

PRIVACY STATEMENT

If you would like to exercise any of these rights, please contact Jessica Holifield, HR Officer. Email: jessica.holifield@beacons-npa.gov.uk . You can make a subject access request- Email: Data Protection Officer via dpo@beacons-npa.gov.uk

If you believe that the Authority has not complied with your data protection rights, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

What if you do not provide personal data?

You are under no statutory or contractual obligation to provide data to the Authority during the recruitment process. However, if you do not provide the information, the Authority may not be able to process your application properly or at all.

You are under no obligation to provide information for equal opportunities monitoring purposes and there are no consequences for your application if you choose not to provide such information.
